Trapped by Desire

What will it take to win his heart again? It's Freedom Day. I couldn't see myself married until I conquered my career. So, when Maximus dropped to one knee in front of our family and friends, I freaked. I'm Parker Hamilton. I should be experiencing an all-time high, as a partner of Platinum Prestige and a top real estate agent in Texas. But I don't have my man, and it's lonelier than I imagined. So, I decided to host a soiree on a party bus to take my guests through Austin Hill Country, I don't expect to see Max board, especially with her. She's the woman I've hated since she took kiddie scissors to my ponytail. The one who "accidentally" dropped fruit punch on my cream prom dress. The woman that finds a way to sabotage every picture perfect moment. When Max looks at me, I can still see the hunger in his eyes. Ready or not, I have four hours to make him mine again. And this time, I'm willing to do whatever it takes to get a second chance. Blazin' Love is a series of steamy romance novellas and part of the Steamy Sensations Holiday Love project. A Storm Is Coming (A BWWM/IR Romance)

Broken hearted Tamara Milton throws herself in piloting her boss Samuel Corso's yacht the two were caught up by a powerful storm in the high seas and an intimate discovery happens.. Tamara Milton just dumped her philandering, abusive ex Terry, and plans to distract herself from her broken heart with a weekend of piloting her boss's yacht on a Caribbean fishing trip. But time alone with handsome billionaire Samuel Corso proves more than a little distracting, as the crush she's been trying to ignore for months starts to blossom. Their slightly sexually awkward idyll is broken when a powerful storm strikes the area two days early, cutting them off from land and forcing them to ride it out on the open sea. But she's in for an even bigger shock than the sudden storm as the two of them huddle below decks to shelter from the pounding waves. She never expected, in her time trying to hide her desire from her employer, that it might be mutual. But what happens when the storm ends, and they must face each other in the hard light of day? AUTHOR'S NOTE: This is a stand-alone story with an HEA, so no cliff-hangers! Story contains mature themes and language, and is intended for 18+ readers only.

The Romance of Race

PREFACE Could this really be the end for Tara and the love of her life Gideon? Or was his ex-wife Linda well on her way to reclaiming his heart? ### "I realize men like Gideon are rare," Tara said to her best friend Lenae. "But I have to follow my dreams to. I'm not ready to start popping out babies and disappear into a sea of diapers. That's what he wants, and he wants it now." "Tara I'm a bit older than you, and I've been blessed to have two great husbands," Lenae said. "The kind of love that you have with Gideon doesn't come along often. If you lose him, in my opinion, you'll regret it for the rest of your life. I'm not telling you not to pursue your dreams, but honey, you can't take a real estate agency to bed with you at night. It won't be there to kiss you awake in the mornings, or hold your hand when you're sick. I know I may sound old-fashioned, but life is about sacrifices. I think modern-day women have been fed a myth about having it all. Who knows, maybe we can, but we have to clarify what 'all' means. And don't forget, there are always women like Linda willing to give a man like Gideon everything he wants." "I know," Tara said. "How do I stay true to who I am and what I want, and hang on to the man I love?" ### Tara went to the window and stared out at Gideon, his father and his ex-wife Linda, weaving between piles of clothes, tools, furniture and books. Linda's long, thick blonde hair was loose, the sunlight catching the silken tresses as she tucked a handful behind one ear while sorting through what seemed to be a box full of old fabric. The three of them looked like any other family holding a yard sale on a sunny afternoon. A long ago conversation unearthed itself from the deep recesses of Tara's mind, where she thought she'd buried and sealed it away for good. "Whether you like to admit it or not Tara, I am family. I have been a part of the McHollister family for almost longer than I can remember. Gideon's father is like a second father to me. I knew his mother; she taught me how to make the crust on the very first pie I made. We gardened together, talked about making her a grandmother one day, went shopping together. I was the daughter she never had. ... So dear Tara, make no mistake, I am part of the McHollister family. I always will be and still carry the name to prove it." Tara trained her gaze back on the yard. Linda looked up, sensing someone staring at her. Tara couldn't quite make out the other woman's expression. But, she knew in that moment is that if she didn't do something soon, Gideon would be lost to her forever.

What mends first? A shattered heart or a broken mind? What began as a series of misunderstandings catapults into urgent need, as Gin finds herself forced to make an impossible choice, staying faithful to memories of the past or living for the future. I'm not who I used to be. Losing them turned me into someone I don't even recognize. I'm not even sure I want to know that person. So I ran. But that was just a change in longitude and latitude. When I met Roman, my insides were a twisted, decayed, knife-edged thing I was sure no one would ever want. But he took every crushed bit of it and demanded more. He's as scarred on the outside as I am on the inside, but somehow, we fit together like two jagged pieces of the same fractured puzzle. Our tortured pasts brought us together--then ripped us apart. Falling for him was inevitable. So was losing him. Girl meets boy, girl loses boy, but maybegirl gets nothing at the end. Happily ever after just isn't meant for people like meright? Gin's Tonic is a steamy, angsty, mature, small town romance featuring an Asian-American heroine who is stronger than she knows. This is the story of a perfectly imperfect woman and the tall-dark-and-brooding hero who proves to her that love after loss is possible. Please note: Gin's Tonic contains sensitive material such as uncensored adult language, explicit content, and challenging subject matter after experiencing extreme loss. READER DISCRETION ADVISED.

The SAGE Handbook of Interpersonal Communication

With hate crimes on the rise and social movements like Black Lives Matter bringing increased attention to the issue of police brutality, the American public continues to be divided by issues of race. How do adolescents and young adults form friendships and romantic relationships that bridge the racial divide? In The Company We Keep, sociologists Grace Kao, Kara Joyner, and Kelly Stamper Balistreri examine how race, gender, socioeconomic status, and other factors affect the formation of interracial friendships and romantic relationships among youth. They highlight two factors that increase the likelihood of interracial romantic relationships in young adulthood: attending a diverse school and having an interracial friendship or romance in adolescence. While research on interracial social ties has often focused on whites and blacks, Hispanics are the largest minority group and Asian Americans are the fastest growing racial group in the United States. The Company We Keep examines friendships and romantic relationships among blacks, whites, Hispanics, and Asian Americans to better understand the full spectrum of contemporary race relations. Using data from the National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent to Adult Health, the authors explore the social ties of more than 15,000 individuals from their first survey responses as middle and high school students in the mid-1990s through young adulthood nearly fifteen years later. They find that while approval for interracial marriages has increased and is nearly universal among young people, interracial friendships and romantic relationships remain relatively rare, especially for whites and blacks. Black women are particularly disadvantaged in forming interracial romantic relationships, while Asian men are disadvantaged in the formation of any romantic relationships, both as adolescents and as young adults. They also find that people in same-sex romantic relationships are more likely to have partners from a different racial group than are people in different-sex relationships. The authors pay close attention to how the formation of interracial friendships and romantic relationships depends on opportunities for interracial contact. They find that the number of students choosing different-race friends and romantic partners is greater in schools that are more racially diverse, indicating that school segregation has a profound impact on young people's social ties. Kao, Joyner, and Balistreri analyze the ways school diversity and adolescent interracial contact intersect to lay the groundwork for interracial relationships in young adulthood. The Company

We Keep provides compelling insights and hope for the future of living and loving across racial divides.

Sexuality Now: Embracing Diversity

In the United States miscegenation is not merely a subject of literature and popular culture. It is in many ways the foundation of contemporary imaginary community. The Romance of Race examines the role of minority women writers and reformers in the creation of our modern American multiculturalism. The national identity of the United States was transformed between 1880 and 1930 due to mass immigration, imperial expansion, the rise of Jim Crow, and the beginning of the suffrage movement. A generation of women writers and reformers—particularly women of color—contributed to these debates by imagining new national narratives that put minorities at the center of American identity. Jane Addams, Pauline Hopkins, Onoto Watanna (Winnifred Eaton), María Cristina Mena, and Mourning Dove (Christine Quintasket) embraced the images of the United States—and increasingly the world—as an interracial nuclear family. They also reframed public debates through narratives depicting interracial encounters as longstanding, unacknowledged liaisons between white men and racialized women that produced an incestuous, mixed-race nation. By mobilizing the sexual taboos of incest and miscegenation, these women writers created political allegories of kinship and community. Through their criticisms of the nation's history of exploitation and colonization, they also imagined a more inclusive future. As Jolie A. Sheffer identifies the contemporary template for American multiculturalism in the works of turn-of-the century minority writers, she uncovers a much more radical history than has previously been considered.

EXCERPT "It's just sex." Karen said. "Will you stop trying to make a mountain out of a mole hill!" "I would if you didn't have that humongous smile glued to your mug," her best friend Angelika shot back. "I've never known you to do 'just sex.' Be careful Kare," Angelika said, turning serious as she used Karen's nickname. "You don't do 'to-go' sex.' Your heart always gets involved and that's what scares me about this. I don't want to see you hurt again." After her last relationship ended in heartbreak, Karen had taken a year's sabbatical from dating and reassessed her priorities. Her professional life was budding, but she was lonely. So she decided to focus on what she could control - her business - and not wait for a committed relationship to blossom before she had some fun. Meeting Kamar seemed to solidify that she'd made the right decision. They hit it off immediately and she headed straight down the 'bad girl' path, forging a physical connection before thought was given to any type of emotional bond. Could her bad girl behavior lead to a lasting relationship?  "Te quiero mucho," Kamar said in his native Spanish, "I have since the first time I laid eyes on you." "I want you too Kamar," was all Karen could muster in response. Kamar lowered his head and took Karen's lips firmly in his. He didn't want to scare her, but God he'd waited so long to claim those soft, pillowy clouds that he deepened the kiss much quicker than he wanted to. To his surprise, Karen responded with equal pent-up ardor. Wrapping her hands around his neck, she pressed closer into his long, lean frame, reveling in the corded strength of his body. Barely realizing what he was doing, Kamar scooped Karen up effortlessly in his arms and walked down the long hallway to his bedroom. Because he travelled so much and had a hard time sleeping with any kind of light, the room was dark - so dark that it was hard to see anything at all. Eyes closed, Karen didn't notice because her lips were still fully exploring Kamar's. Only when he lowered her to the bed did she realize that they'd left the living room and were in his bedroom. In one effortless move, Kamar hit a switch on the bedside table and flooded the room with soft lamp light. He froze when he looked at Karen. She was stunningly beautiful - her skin glowed luminously in the dimmed lighting. Not sure how to react to his gaze, Karen lay still beneath him, her eyes pleading for an explanation. "A dios mio, estan muy hermosa," he whispered. Although her Spanish was limited, she understood enough to know that he was telling her how beautiful she was. With this, she immediately relaxed. "Thank you," she whispered and reached up to brazenly pull his lips back to hers. She was overwhelmed by her need for him and while she could never be so bold as to express it in words, she'd let her body tell him everything he needed to know.  Karen looked at herself squarely in the bathroom mirror the next morning. "What have I done?" she chastised herself. 'To go' sex, as her friend Angelika had put it, definitely wasn't her style. But two mojitos and one sangria later and she'd given in to the desire Kamar had awakened in her. Could the chemistry they shared in bed translate into a successful relationship out of bed? Or was she so "Trapped by Desire" that she was setting herself up for heartbreak all over again? ### Relevant Search Terms: african american romance, contemporary romance, interracial romance, multiracial romance, bwmm romance, multicultural romance, short romance, steamy romance

Three's Great Company: Interracial Menage Erotica

Every Woman Needs A Praying Man

The highly-anticipated sequel to the #1 smash hit Scandal: Crossing Boundaries! Sometimes blood ain't thicker than water Thirty-three year old Tianna Porter has got it like that. She has a successful doll business, a fancy car and a dream house. But even with all that going on there's still something missing in Tianna's life—A MAN. Having given up all social activity to lift her business off the ground, Tia's love and sex life has taken a back seat. Tianna doesn't mind though, because being the strong, successful black woman that she is, she believes she doesn't need a man for shit! To hell with starting a family. The problem is, her momma won't shut the hell up about her popping out some damn kids! Across town, Tianna's cousin Keisha has lost everything; her job, her reputation and her nearly ten-year marriage. Now under strict house arrest for her scandalous crime, Keisha must depend on her boyfriend Zack, who is twelve years younger, to provide for her and her three kids. Soon, cracks start to show in their two-year relationship as Keisha's insecurities come front and center. Combine that with their age difference and the difference in their cultures, there is only so much drama the interracial lovebirds' ill-fated romance can take before asses start to show. As things start to get heated and Keisha faces retaliation from her bitter ex-husband, she begins to wonder if losing it all for her young boy toy was worth it. Meanwhile, Tianna is suddenly forced to face reality when a dark secret from her past surfaces, threatening her successful doll company, her family, and her very life! Can desperate Tianna find a man that will love and protect her while saving her business at the same time? Shared by the Billionaires

This collection includes 3 steamy interracial romances featuring three different kinds of alpha male bad boys: an athlete, a billionaire, and an ex-military artist. All involve a second chance at a first love! Includes: 1) SCULPTOR - She has no idea what she's in for... When a stunning goddess crashes my art studio, demanding I take on a project for her when I'm still knee-deep in my current one, the answer should have been a firm no. Instead, I got firm elsewhere, and the next thing I know, I'm ready to do everything in my power to claim the innocent rich girl and make her mine. She wants to make demands? I've got some of my own. But we both might have bitten off more than we can chew... 2) FATED - Sweet, curvy Nina has been in love with her best friend, Brent, for years. She accepts being friend-zoned until one steamy, impulsive night changes everything between them. But then Brent suddenly vanishes from her life, leaving her alone, confused, and carrying around a huge secret. When she runs into Brent again, both of their lives have changed drastically, and now that her old best friend is a billionaire, she's convinced he'll never want her now that he can have any woman he desires, and especially once he finds out what she's been hiding for years. But will Brent surprise her after all? Or will he toss her aside again, leaving her alone and broken once more? 3) PENALTY - Once superstar jock Abraham Stone notices shy Madison Mills, all hell breaks loose. He is determined to have her, finally deciding to shed his longtime, gold-digging girlfriend, Bethany, in favor of the quiet, unassuming nerd. But with Abe's determined desire comes crippling unforeseen consequences. Jilted Bethany won't go down without a vicious fight, and in the end, they'll all pay for crossing paths, one way or another. Can the athletic alpha convince Madison he's worth the cost? A Taste of Tara: Part IV

Kissed by Passion

Chris, Samantha and Monica are three former college friends who have a chance to reconnect on New Years eve. They have been wanting to get together for awhile and now they are all in the same place at the same time. Chris is a handsome white man and he finds himself deeply attracted to Monica's chocolate brown complexion. Samantha is beautiful and petite. The girls are the perfect foils for each other and seem to be as eager to hook up as Chris is. Together, the three of them discover that their private party is the best way to ring in the New Year. Chris doesn't have to worry about the girls feeling left out, they are more than willing to share. Although there's a saying that three's a crowd, the friends engage in the most wild erotic experience that lives Chris longing to spend some more time with the two women, they had been great company.
