The Third Canadian Edition of ABC's of Relationship Selling explores professional selling from a Canadian perspective. As the title of the book suggests, the text is centred around a philosophy about selling: that success requires mastery of selling basics, including selecting presentation styles, and effective closing techniques. In addition, other key topics such as ethics and territory management are explored. Although Futrell has traditionally been seen as the "relationship" book, and Manning has been called the "strategy" book, this division is no longer as cut and dry. In the current edition, Manning has moved more toward a relationship-based approach, moving to include a sales management chapter at the end of their text (including Intro Selling, Professional Selling, and Negotiations). Manning users cite the consultative model process used throughout as one of its key strengths on the strategy side. Through extensive reviewing, four key elements have been identified as the most difficult for students to learn and instructors to teach. It is these four key elements which directed the revision of this edition: Beginning the Sale, Closing the Sale, Handling Objections, and Ethics/Integrity-based selling.

With everyday language, engaging examples, a sense of humor, and solid evidence, it describes 26 unique ways that students learn. Weybrew has developed the ABC model of stress upon a foundation of nearly three decades of stress research with nuclear submariners. With its connotation as a fundamental or elementary principle of stress dynamics, the ABC model is built upon three basic concepts in learning and vector psychology: Antecedent conditions, Behavior, and Consequences. One of the central features of Weybrew's research is the inclusion of preventive and therapeutic strategies for acute and chronic patterns of stress reactivity. These intervention techniques provided here have heuristic value for the researcher and teacher alike, while being described in language readily understood by the lay reader.

All too often, companies promote their best worker/technician/salesperson into a supervisory position. The common misconception is that if you're good at doing something, you'll be good at managing or supervising others doing that same job. Doing a job and supervising others doing that job are two very different functions and require very different skills. So if you know of anyone who has been thrown into this very difficult situation (maybe your own supervisor?) this handbook gives them simple, yet very effective, ways to supervise and motivate employees.
