The Car Book, 1996

Few cars have achieved the iconic status of Volkswagen's classic and much-loved Beetle – yet its origins are intertwined with the dark days of Nazism. This book looks at those origins, at the marque's initial post-war rescue by the British and the effect of early VW Director General Heinz Nordhoff's forward-looking desire to perfect one model rather than spread the company's talent over a range of designs, at the impact of radical-minded advertising campaigns and at the Beetle's never-to-be-beaten production record for a single model of nearly 22 million cars. Bringing the reader right up to the present day, marque expert Richard A. Copping

Contributions to this work begin from a homogeneous-analytic point of view, then go further to analyze continuous variables, extending the geometrical approach of Gifi, and applying functional analytic techniques to problems involving replicated time series data (which are not subject to classical correspondence analysis and principal component analysis). Closing chapters address probability coding (which is related to fuzzy coding), and two approaches to component analysis: optimal scaling (which uses monotone splines) embedded in a more classical statistical framework; and the connection between explorative multivariate data analysis and confirmation analysis based on statistical modelling.
